

Paul F. Evelius is a partner in Wright, Constable & Skeen's corporate practice section, focusing his practice on business and employment law, including litigation. Mr. Evelius' representative clients include technology companies that provide advanced software and hardware solutions to government and commercial customers, as well as businesses across a wide range of industries, including insurance, construction, and transportation.

His services include advice on the wide range of legal issues that arise in the start-up, growth, and maintenance of a successful business, the negotiation and documentation of simple and complex business acquisitions, and, where necessary, the aggressive prosecution and defense of lawsuits. He has extensive experience with preparation of the full spectrum of corporate documents, including operating and stockholder agreements, employment contracts, restrictive covenants, employee manuals, deferred compensation plans, vendor and customer contracts, and acquisition-related agreements. Wright, Constable & Skeen is a full service law firm assisting businesses, institutions and individuals with their legal needs.
